FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

The Healey Werks Announces Groundbreaking of New Restoration Facility

(August 22, 2007, Lawton, IA) Having recently celebrated their 20th anniversary, Restoration Specialist The Healey Werks celebrates the ground breaking of a new 25,000 sq.ft. state-of-the-art facility at their current location near Lawton Iowa. The new facility is designed to increase efficiencies, expand in-house capabilities and accommodate additional restoration demand. In addition the new facility will allow The Healey Werks to continue growth of their Concept Engineering and Prototyping services.

Owners Craig and Shari Hillinger explain that years of growth within the confines of the current facility have influenced efficiencies and practices required for the scale and range of work being done. Integrating these business practices within the new facility will allow us to reach the next level of excellence, accommodate the growing demand for our services, and keep the all-encompassing workmanship within our campus. Completion of the new facility is estimated to be spring 2008.

Ground breaking ceremony is planned for 10am Thursday August 23rd 2007, with plans and information available, on the campus located at 1821 Hwy 20 Lawton Iowa. (4 miles East of Sioux City)
